Complete Scope of the examination and Expanded subtest descriptions:

1. Computer-assisted mapping, including geographic information system (GIS) applications

These questions test for knowledge of the concepts, terminology, and proper procedures to use when creating and revising maps and site plans utilizing GIS and computerized mapping software.

2. Preparing written material

These questions test for the ability to present information clearly and accurately, and to organize paragraphs logically and comprehensibly. For some questions, you will be given information in two or three sentences followed by four restatements of the information. You must then choose the best version. For other questions, you will be given paragraphs with their sentences out of order. You must then choose, from four suggestions, the best order for the sentences.

3. Transportation planning and program development, including sociological, economic, design-and environmental factors
These questions test for knowledge of the concepts, design issues, terminology and proper practices utilized in the transportation planning and analysis fields, including how best to improve the quality of life, the economy and the environment through transportation planning programs and projects.

4. Collection, analysis and presentation of data, including basic statistics
These questions test for knowledge of the proper procedures and methods used to gather, evaluate, organize, summarize, and utilize various types of technical data and information, and the fundamental concepts, terminology, and computations involved in statistical analysis for transportation-related planning studies.

5. Understanding and interpreting tabular material
These questions test your ability to understand, analyze, and use the internal logic of data presented in tabular form. You may be asked to perform tasks such as completing tables, drawing conclusions from them, analyzing data trends or interrelationships, and revising or combining data sets. The concepts of rate, ratio, and proportion are tested. Mathematical operations are simple, and computational speed is not a major factor in the test. You should bring with you a hand-held battery- or solar-powered calculator for use on this test. You will not be permitted to use the calculator function of your cell phone.

The New York State Department of Civil Service has not prepared a test guide for this examination. However, candidates may find information in the publication "How to take a written test" helpful in preparing for this test.
